MARIANNE WILLIAMSON - THE LAW OF DIVINE COMPENSATION

Marianne Williamson – spiritual leader and author of The Law of Divine Compensation, and six other New York Times-bestselling books, including A Return to Love - has been featured on Oprah and Larry King, and leads initiatives like Sister Giant, and was a candidate for U.S. Congress in California.

AN ABUNDANCE WORLD VIEW

Julie Ann Turner:

Welcome, everyone. This is Julie Ann Turner.

We're so glad that you're joining us for ConsciousSHIFT today.

I have a question for you.

What is your world view about abundance, about money?

I'm asking, because I've noticed that this can actually be quite a sensitive question about our consciousness - our beliefs about money, income, compensation, abundance, wealth ... interesting concepts, right?

What is your world view?

Do you think of yourself as being at the effect of a random universe that doesn't care about you, a world view of scarcity? Or do you think of yourself as being at the effect of a loving universe that does care about you .. in other words, a world view of abundance?

It's a critical question, isn't it, because our beliefs determine what we see and what we experience.

What is your World View
about abundance ...
about
money and wealth?

To talk with us today about our abundance world view and about The Law of Divine Compensation - how we can consciously tap into that abundance, I am honored to welcome Marianne Williamson to join us today on ConsciousSHIFT. Welcome, Marianne.

Marianne Williamson:

Hi. How are you? Thank you so much for having me.

Julie Ann Turner:

Absolutely.

All of our listeners, Marianne, across the globe on ConsciousSHIFT - I am sure that they know you as a loving, powerful teacher and guide - much from the principles of A Course in Miracles - and also they know you as a spiritual leader and author, a teacher ... and they know you from your bestselling books, A Return To Love and six of your books have been New York Times bestsellers.

They may know you that way.

They may have seen you on Oprah or Larry King or Good Morning America. They may have heard of your initiatives like Project Angel Food or Sister Giant and in all of your works - especially in your latest book, The Law of Divine Compensation.

You are inviting us to consciously shift from fear and limitation, to faith and love ... from a world view of scarcity, to a world view of abundance.

I want to ask you - I'm sure our listeners, as enlightened and conscious as they are, may be asking: "Can simply changing our minds change our bank balance?"

Marianne Williamson:

Changing our mind literally determines which realm of experience we inhabit.

Can simply changing our minds change our bank accounts?

There is one way of looking at the world which is only through our physical eyes. That shows us a world of scarcity and luck. In this material realm, there are only so many pieces of the pie. We have to compete to get ours. We have to prove somehow that we are better than other people. We have to compete. We have to struggle and particularly in times of economic challenge. For most people, that means right now. This is a very difficult experience that rises from this kind of world view.

Programmed for Perfection

Enlightenment is a shift from body identification to spirit identification. That means that we recognize that while we inhabit on a three-dimensional level, the material plane, life is much more than that ... beyond what the physical eyes can see, there's a world of infinite abundance in which there are an infinite number of pieces of the pie - and we don't have to struggle or compete, because no one else can compete to be you, just as you cannot compete to be anyone else ... and that each and every one of us is programmed for stardom.

Each and every one of us is programmed for perfection - just as the embryo becomes a baby through a natural programming and invisible hand of sorts and a bud turns into a blossom and an acorn turns into an oak tree, every aspect of reality is similarly programmed to rise to its highest place of material manifestation.

When we see work that way - not as a job outside of us that we need to go get - but rather a calling, a career that arises organically out of the depths of who we are, then we see the creation of external abundance from a whole different place.

It's not something we go to find or to get from outside of us, but rather that it's something that unfolds naturally as an automatic reflection of the abundance that we have experienced inside ourselves.

Each and every one of us is programmed for stardom.

Julie Ann Turner:

Beautiful. Marianne, you really set the foundation when you share that every experience begins with a thought. If we're experiencing lack, the first place to look is in our thinking.

Marianne Williamson:

Right. You don't normally think of when you, let's say, are dealing with material lack of some kind, you don't normally think, "Well, who have I not forgiven?"

The idea here is that the universe is self-correcting.

Whenever there is a problem, whenever there is a lack, whenever there is a diminishment of material resources, there is within the infinitude of spiritual substance the ability to compensate - that's what I call The Law of Divine Compensation - to compensate for that lack.

What normally happens is that, or at least what we're tempted to do, is to meet limited circumstances with limited thought. 'Ain't it awful? I'm a victim. It's a slow recovery and jobs won't be available for a long time. Even when they're available, nobody will be hiring me. I don't have the right resume. I'm not the right age ...' or whatever.

When you look to your own thoughts, you realize that your power lies in meeting even limited circumstances with unlimited thoughts.

I am not just a child of this world. I'm a child of the universe - and therefore, even though I might not have a job at the moment, as the world defines it, I still have a divine calling that I was born with, which is to love, to give and to receive love. You realize that in the presence of love, miracles occur naturally. Anytime we withhold love, we are deflecting a miracle.

Wherever there is lack, The Law of Divine Compensation is available to compensate for that lack.

That's why we look to our self.

I think it's also significant to mention, some people might hear that and go, "Well, wait a minute. Are you saying that some starving child in Africa doesn't have food because they don't love enough?" My answer to that is the starving child is lacking food in Africa because we are not loving enough.

Every problem does ultimately come from a lack of love - but sometimes it's not just the lack of love inside the person who is experiencing the effect. Even then though, the point is to realize that we are not meant to be the effect of lovelessness on our part or anyone else's.

Even when it comes to something like the starving child, if the advanced nations of the world got together and said, "Look, in 10 years, we will eradicate the poverty from the planet," then that's exactly what will happen.

Julie Ann Turner:

Exactly. You pointed out that Jeffrey Sachs [author of The End of Poverty: How We Can Make It Happen in Our Lifetime] and others have really outlined we could choose to do that.

Marianne Williamson:

Absolutely. I have an interview with him actually on my public Facebook page. It's interesting that you mentioned that. Thank you.

Julie Ann Turner:

Absolutely, wonderful. We'll share that information, as well. As we go forward, we're going to give certainly the information about the book and some other things that you're going to be sharing Marianne around The Law of Divine Compensation.

To go back to one of your points, you talked about the importance of how we think - and that our fear mind is really equated with our ego mind - and that when we choose our thoughts, enlightenment, as you say, is a choice - the way that we think if we're thinking a loving thought, we can activate this Law of Divine Compensation.

Any time
we withhold love
we are deflecting
a miracle.

How can we activate the Law -
and how do we deactivate it?

Marianne Williamson:

In the morning, the most powerful thing we can do is to meditate - because just as a coach of a great athlete, we'll have the athlete envision the move before they actually make the move.

When we meditate, we allow our minds to settle into natural alignment with the natural harmonies of the universe. Remember it's within the alignment of the natural harmony of the universe that all is programmed for perfection.

When you wake up in the morning and you go directly to the newspaper or the computer and view listings as the world defines that view, then you are surrendering your mind to the forces of fear.

Now, I'm not saying you shouldn't read the newspaper, you shouldn't know what's going on in the world - because I think we should - but we should see it from a place where we have already prepared our minds in such a way that we can experience ourselves not as at the effect of all the terrible news in the world - but as transformers of all the terrible news in the world.

From that point, you go through your day - and this is what the book is about - you save your business, you save your job.

May I be a vessel of love through this work, may the world be a better place because I have this job, may I show up impeccably, may I not live in the past but in the present, may I look at every human encounter in every situation as an opportunity to bless and to extend love.

Meditation
activates
the Law
of Divine Attraction ... allowing our minds to settle into natural harmony with the universe.

Let me, before I even go to work today, send love and wish for peace to my employer, to my employers, to my clients, to my perspective clients and you actually go through the mental discipline of sending love to everyone involved with you in a work situation. Now, obviously you don't necessarily say anything - but it's how you use your mind.

One of the things that happens when you do is that - you come to realize how infrequently this normally happens. You realize that you're walking around with resentments and anger and controlling thoughts and all those things that just normally happen on any given day. You begin to realize as I said before, in any place where we are withholding love, we're blocking the miracle.

It's amazing how much abundance flows through us when we allow the abundance in our hearts to flow out.

Julie Ann Turner:

You shared in the book, Marianne, that miracles are natural. They're the natural state of being. It's only through negative thoughts, through lack of forgiveness, through sometimes blocking the miracle just by insisting on a specific form of miracle rather than being open to any form of miracle or by simply focusing as you so clearly shared that focusing on circumstances that those bills, those finances, investments may be even losses, that just only focusing on the material circumstances rather than on our thinking focuses us on a lower vibration, a partial view, actually a fear view, which is actually an illusion.

Marianne Williamson:

Right, exactly. That's exactly what A Course in Miracles says. The first thing you said was that miracles are natural - when they do not occur something has gone wrong. Once again, that's the notion of the self-organizing universe. The embryo naturally becomes the baby. The acorn naturally becomes the oak tree.

Miracles are the natural state of being ... and abundance is meant to flow naturally through us.

The quote I have at the beginning of the book from Einstein says, “The most important decision you will ever make is whether you think you live in a friendly universe or a harmful universe.”

When you make that decision and say, “I believe I live in a friendly universe,” you are open to the evidence that the universe is supporting you in success. The universe is supporting you in all that would lift you to your highest level of creative manifestation.

Julie Ann Turner:

Conversely, if you don't believe that it is an abundant, miracle-filled universe, you won't even be able to see the opportunities sometimes that are right before you.

Marianne Williamson:

We experience a lot when we don't live in the present. If the universe is programmed to be self-correcting, that means any time there's been lack or diminishment, the universe is already 'on it' for divine correction.

Sometimes, because you're living in such an ‘Ain't it awful’ (mindset) from the past or carrying a baggage from the past, feeling victimized, feeling depressed or whatever - and you're not showing up with the faith that in this present moment, the universe is an infinite opportunity-creating machine.

You might have a new opportunity right in front of you - in the guise of a person who might be interested in hiring you, or connect you to your next opportunity - but because you bring the energy of the past, rather than really being open to new beginnings in the present, you completely miss out on the opportunity.

The universe is supporting you in all that would lift you to your highest level of manifestation.

Julie Ann Turner:

You described that so beautifully in the book and gave some great examples. The way you're describing this really gives us a sense of how we can truly bring love into the workplace, into our works of art - which is really what we're all here to do.

It's to express our unique light,
our unique creative expressions in the world.

You give such a beautiful description of how we can literally walk through the day.

No matter what our work is,
our work can be our ministry.

Marianne Williamson:

Right - exactly. On a mortal plane, we all do different things - but on the spiritual plane, we're all here for the same purpose.

That is to be conduit for the love that will heal the world.

One person gives their upliftment and their love and their service through sciences, some through the arts, some through the legal system, some through education.

Work takes a different form - but at the deepest level,
we all have the same calling.

When we identify not only who we are, but what we're doing - not according to only as material expression, but through the spiritual purpose - then it gives us power that we would not otherwise have.

takes different forms - but at the deepest level,
we all have the same calling.

Julie Ann Turner:

It's such a different way of looking at our work.

Even the word work, it tends to be a heavy word - at least in the western world. You talked about the difference between a calling or a ministry versus a job. It's such a shift of energy, isn't it, to just think about your works of art, your artistry in the world, your ministry, your works of art.

You say each one of us is on this earth with a divine purpose to rise to the level of our highest creative possibility.

Isn't that beautiful?

Marianne Williamson:

Right – because, at the highest level, your work is not just about what you do. It's about the consciousness that you bring to it.

Anyone can be of service. If you're in contact with people, if you're doing something related to people, you have an opportunity to put good in the world. If you in any way don't rise to that occasion and behaved at any kind of lack of ethics or lack of morals in terms of a moral universe, then you actually bring harm to the world.

That's a particularly important issue when it comes to work and money, because we have this idea that nice guys finish last. Nice guys actually finish first. They might finish last in the short term, but in the long term, the universe knows what it's doing - and God is not mocked. There is karma and there is cause and effect. There is accountability and cosmic justice.

Julie Ann Turner:

In spiritual circles, particularly, there is often a negative view of wealth - and even some confusion about compensation. You talked about the law of fair exchange. Could you speak to that just a little bit?

Each of us has a divine purpose to rise to the level of our highest creative possibility.

Marianne Williamson:

Yes. Some people have a prejudice against the poor, these awful thought forms - like 'someone's poor only because they're lazy and no good and not trying.'

It's similarly inaccurate and inappropriate to make stereotypical judgment about the rich.

It's just as unbalanced as to 'every rich person is greedy and unethical,' as it is to say 'every poor person is lazy and just not trying.'

It's very important to notice that particular form of lovelessness and judgment in our minds -

because if we have a judgment that says

'every rich person is part of the problem, every rich person is unethical or greedy' - then you will subconsciously sabotage wealth, if it's on its way to your door.

For us to be open to whatever abundance the universe sends to us - because the universe wants us to have, I believe, whatever level of abundance would help us to forge that highest level of creative possibility in our own lives - noticing where we are prejudiced against money, against wealth is as important as noticing where we are prejudiced against poverty.

Julie Ann Turner:

You were talking in the book about this fair exchange. When we share our unique divine gifts in the world to help another and receive compensation in return, both are blessed. We're blessed.

Marianne Williamson:

Right. That issue of fair exchange with money is correct ... we want money to circulate. There's nothing beautiful about what happens when money stops circulating.

That causes a lot of suffering. What we want is for money - just like goodwill, just like love, just like justice - to circulate freely and fully.

It is important to notice where we negatively judge money or wealth.

When you are creating something of value and you put it out into the world and somebody gives you money in exchange, they added value to your life in the form of money that you use to pay your bills. You put something of value in their hands.

That's the law of fair exchange.
That's what capitalism should be.

Now, what's happened in our society in the last 40 or 50 years is that American capitalism, in a macro sense, has in many ways deviated from its ethical center. Money has become so much the bottom line that people have lost the deeper sense of morality around it in too many cases - but money actually should not be the bottom line.

Love should be the bottom line.
Humanitarian value should be the bottom line.
Ethics should be the bottom line.
Morality should be the bottom line.
Then within that of course, the law of fair exchange works perfectly for everyone.

The fact that we have so transactionalized and financialized everything in our society had not served us. It has not created a healthy or prosperous economy at all. There's a lot of deep thinking and deep questioning going on in our society about these things right now.

Julie Ann Turner:

It's so interesting to me that you are bringing this message now. I've also, on ConsciousSHIFT, had the privilege to talking to Julia Cameron - her latest book is The Prosperous Heart. She's talking about the same ideas. Dan Pink, who's been on the show, is talking about To Sell is Human.

Money
should not be the bottom line ...

Love
should be
bottom line.

It seems to be in the consciousness right now that this is an inspired time to bring this message forward.

Is that what you felt when you were inspired to write the book?

Marianne Williamson:

Whenever we have a problem, the mind is inspired to think in terms of the solutions. I heard many people talking about real stress and anxiety and tension during this last recession. That is what inspired me to write the book. It makes sense when you have a problem in your life that you sometimes tend to do your deepest thinking about it.

That's where I think the society is. We know if something is very much not working here ... the whole 1% versus 99% and how much suffering has resulted from the economic slowdown.

Julie Ann Turner:

Marianne, you share a process to make this conscious shift to abundance - whether somebody listening has lost a job or whether they're just looking for more work, so they can tap into this Law of Divine Compensation ... would you be willing to go through that with me?

For those of you who have the book, you can look with me (on page 121), but the first step is you place your need for work in God's hands.

This is important - whether you're looking for a job or whether we're just thinking about any kind of work that we want. If we want to improve our businesses, the first step would be to place your need for work in God's hands. Marianne, you talked about surrendering your thoughts and taking the highest responsibility for your circumstances.

Place
your need for work in God's hands.

Marianne Williamson:

Right. It's interesting. A Course in Miracles says you pay a very high price for not taking 100% responsibility for your life. The price you pay is that you will then not be able to change your circumstances.

I know a lot of times we're angry.
We've all had our economic ups and downs.

A lot of times you have two thoughts.
One of them is 'It was my own damn fault.'
The other one is 'I don't know how I'll ever forgive those bastards.' In other words, things you wish you hadn't done ... then you think through things you wish you'd done that you didn't do. Sometimes it's very difficult for us to start over because we're very angry at ourselves for being where we are. 'I would have had money in the bank by now if I had only acted better four years ago,' or whatever.

Sometimes, there's a lot of self-forgiveness necessary. Some of that includes atonement, admitting where we've made mistakes, admitting where we were not wise, admitting where we were not moderate, admitting where we were not responsible.

Only in atoning, only in admitting our errors and really doing what's really necessary not only to make amends - but to change our thinking and change our behavior - then we are able to feel the peace of self-forgiveness, because we know that we've learned.

The only thing that's ultimately a failure is something that we didn't learn from. Something is not a failure if you learned from it and you're ready to do it better now.

You pay a very high price for not taking 100% responsibility
for your life.

The other thing is when there are other people - whether it's people on Wall Street or bankers or politicians, or somebody who unfairly fired you, or someone who sabotaged you at work - the idea of forgiving ourselves and others ... because where there's a lack of forgiveness, the principle of divine compensation, The Law of Divine Compensation, can't move and then correct things - where there's withhold of love.

There is no more important change of thinking than forgiveness.

The change of thinking that transforms our lives is not just concentrating on what we want. That's magic where you're just telling the universe what you want.

Miracles occur when you ask how you can be of service to the universe. The greatest service we can be to the universe is that our minds be used as vessels of love.

Julie Ann Turner:

One of the most powerful things you share, Marianne, is that even if you've made mistakes, even if you've done wrong or you've been done wrong, if you've been cheated - that there is a divine compensation.

It's okay. Move back into love.

As you say, a miracle is a shift in perception from fear to love.

If we can just remember that, and as you say, remember who we are - that we're divine beings - and we shift into that world of abundance, instead of just focusing on the world of scarcity, everything changes.

Even if you have made mistakes - there is divine compensation. Move back into love.

I encourage everyone check out Marianne's book
The Law of Divine Compensation.

Marianne Williamson:

Of course, the book can be found at any major book seller ... and if you go to www.Marianne.com, you can find out about my current courses and events ... and you can sign up for my email list there, as well.

Julie Ann Turner:

Absolutely. I'm on that list. I encourage everyone to get on that list. I encourage everyone to get Marianne's latest book, The Law of Divine Compensation. I can tell you this one really touched my heart.

I just would love to take a moment to invite all of our ConsciousSHIFT-ers to send you love - for all the love that you shared with us through your speaking, through your writing.

Marianne Williamson:

That is so touching to me. Thank you.
That is very kind of you - and I have to tell you, I'm feeling it right now. Thank you so much for that. What an honor. Thank you.

Julie Ann Turner:

Absolutely.
Marianne, thank you so much for joining us here on ConsciousSHIFT.

Marianne Williamson:

Thank you so much.
Thank you. God bless you.

Miracles

universe.

Life's Top Line

Julie Ann Turner:

Isn't that a wonderful conversation with Marianne Williamson about The Law of Divine Compensation?

When we're talking about our world view - do we see a world of abundance, or a world of scarcity?

It matters where we focus our attention - as we look at issues such as income and abundance and wealth.

As Marianne pointed out, the world is so often focused on the bottom line - just profit, money, a life lived for tangible things only. It's such a different energy, isn't it?

I'm sure many of you have lived in that kind of world view before - have lived in that kind of circumstantial experience. I know I have. Let me just share just a touch of my story here, for those of you who don't know.

For me, I actually had some level of success as a senior executive in an international advertising and PR firms and was a rising star and a global 50 tech company.

For me, I had what looked like success on the outside - but on the inside, my authentic self, my soul, was actually struggling - because for me, the higher I rose in the corporate world, it seemed like the less my values aligned.

Life's top line means your values are aligned with what you're contributing to the world.

Everywhere around me,
I just saw corporate turf wars,
people undercutting one another.
They were valuing competition
over co-creation.

I realized that my values were the exact opposite - creativity, innovation, collaboration.

I just had this sinking realization that this 'success' was really - for me at least - an illusion. It was a trap ... I was stuck in a loop. I didn't really know how to get out.

I just knew I wasn't living my highest and best life.
I wasn't sharing my greatest gifts.

You know how there are moments in life
where just everything changes?
It just wakes you up - and you just never see things the same way again.

Here I was, already questioning my path -
and then my mom got cancer.
She passed away at only 48 years old.

For me, perhaps even a bit younger than most,
I really came face to face with the reality that we just only have such a brief time, don't we, to make the impact we're here
to make.

That's when I took the leap - into my own life's work - finding out what my life's purpose was.

Life's
top line encompasses your highest and best life.

In the process of discovering in living out my life's purpose, I really discovered the difference between living for the bottom line - just for profit and money - and living for what I call life's top line, a life lived with full potential to full purpose, to joy, to love, to fulfillment, to contribution.

This radio show and my book series, GENESIS OF GENIUS - as I share also with my visionary clients across the globe - it's just as important, if not more so, to consider life's top line.

What are you really living for?
What meaning does your life have for you?
What gives you joy?
What is your creative expression in the world?
What are your works of art?
What higher end are you expending your energy every day?

Marianne Williamson said it like this in her book ... she says, "It's to live in the flow of a meaningful life." To live in the flow of a meaningful life - not just about money - but where our work exists on a higher plane, a higher plane than money ... as Marianne spoke about doing your work as your calling, your ministry, your mission, your purpose.

She actually says that miracles happen when you do that, when you share your unique gifts, when you share your unique mission and message in the world, your mission is like a magnet for abundance.

It's not surprising that finding your life's mission or purpose has an amazing way of plugging you into a natural flow of creative energy.

Do you know
 top line
 of your life?

In fact, another one of my favorite authors, Thomas Moore who wrote Care of the Soul and many other books, he talks about the fact that the word work in Latin is actually opus. It's the same word that's used to talk about works of art. Isn't that interesting?

Could we think about our work as our art?

Also, Thomas Moore mentions that the Greek word for work is ergon. It's the same root as the word energy.

Now, that's a big shift, isn't it,
to think about our work
 as giving us energy?

In fact, one powerful secret to discovering your purpose and potential is to ask that very question: Does this give me energy or does it take energy away from me?

Isn't that a great sign?
Your true purpose and potential is going to infuse you with energy.

Think about what are your works of art,
 what is your Signature Genius?

Thomas Moore talks about the fact that our creative expressions reveal the person that we are, the person that we don't even recognize until it is revealed in our work. We see ourselves mirrored in our work and the world outside of us. This is how we find ourselves and our work.

If this is the case, what will you do with your creative energy, your creative power?
Would you exchange your energy only for the tangible things, the bottom-line things, the money?

Does
 work
 infuse
 you with energy?

Even though these things are certainly valid and worthy and enjoyable rewards - but are we only concerned with the bottom line, or will we also choose to exchange our energy and power for a higher purpose - what we're calling here life's top line - to be able to reach our full potential and leave a lasting legacy?

Marianne Williamson actually said this about selfishness: “The greatest darkness of our time is the legitimization of selfishness. When everyone is selfish, that’s a very low-level, low-energy vibration. The universe doesn’t support it.

When the only point of a project is to make money - regardless of the effect it has on children’s minds, regardless of the effect it may have on the environment, yes it might make money but has no cosmic force.”

She adds that each one of us has a desire, a natural desire, all people and all age, to create, to express, to experience that sacred dimension.

Creativity always touches the divine.

When we live from our deepest desire, from our deepest and fullest potential, we're touching our own divinity.

So many today really feel a calling for more than the bottom line - to rediscover and live into life's top line, which encompasses those higher values and purpose and energy, and expresses your true and full creative potential.

As Marianne also says, it's not a risk to step into your full potential. She says the worst thing we can ever do, the greatest risk that we can ever take is playing it safe - because we risk not living the life we were meant to live.

We risk losing the very thing we want to have.

The greatest risk is not to step into your full potential.

The more we express who we really are and share our creative expressions,
the more we are reflected in our life's works.

In this, we experience true joy.
We discover that love, that fulfillment, that contribution that we've been seeking all along.

I want to ask you what is your Signature Genius,
your artistry, your works of art that really shared,
will activate The Law of Divine Compensation?
That's the real question for you.

This is exactly what I actually guide my clients across the globe to discover and express every day to guide you to discover and share your Signature Genius to profit from packaging and sharing your unique value,
to serve your ideal tribe.

I would love to guide you to that divine exchange to tap The Law of Divine Compensation for yourself, to help guide your greatness out of you.

Today, I am really inspired to offer something very special for those of you listening. I am actually going to invite 10 ConsciousSHIFTers to experience - at no cost to you - a one-on-one Discovery Session personally with me ... for the first 10 people with a sincere desire to tap into this Law of Divine Compensation to shift your life and your work to a higher level and a greater compensation for the value that you bring.

If you're listening, and what we've been talking about today really touches you, if it resonates with you, if that's you

CONSCIOUSSHIFT™ NOTES ACTION SHEET

The Law of Divine Compensation – Marianne Williamson

What is your World View about abundance - about money and wealth?

1-2

- Do you think of yourself as being at the effect of a random universe that doesn't care about you, a World View of scarcity?
- Or do you think of yourself as being at the effect of a loving universe that does care about you - in other words, a World View of abundance?
- It's a critical question, because our beliefs determine what we see and what we experience.

Can simply changing our minds change our bank accounts?

Changing our mind literally determines which realm of experience we inhabit.

- There is one way of looking at the world - which is only through our physical eyes - that shows us a world of scarcity and luck. In this material realm, there are only so many pieces of the pie. We have to compete to get ours. We have to prove somehow that we are better than other people. We have to struggle. A very difficult experience rises from this kind of World View.
- Enlightenment is a shift from physical identification to spirit identification. Beyond what the physical eyes can see, there's a world of infinite abundance - infinite pieces of the pie. We don't have to struggle or compete - because no one else can compete to be you, just as you cannot compete to be anyone else ...

Each and every one of us is programmed for stardom, for perfection.

- Every aspect of reality is similarly programmed to rise to its highest place of material manifestation.

When we see work that way - not as a job outside of us that we need to go get - but rather a calling, a career that arises organically out of the depths of who we are, then we see the creation of external abundance from a whole different place or World View.

It's not something we go find or get from outside of us, but rather that it's something that unfolds naturally as an automatic reflection of the abundance that we have experienced inside ourselves.

The idea here is that the universe is self-correcting.

Whenever there is a problem, whenever there is a lack, whenever there is a diminishment of material resources, there is within the infinitude of spiritual substance the ability to compensate - that's what I call The Law of Divine Compensation - to compensate for that lack.

The power lies in looking to your own thoughts – and shifting them.

- When you look to your own thoughts, you realize that *your power lies in meeting even limited circumstances with unlimited thoughts.

- I am not just a child of this world. I'm a child of the universe - and therefore, even though I might not have a job at the moment, as the world defines it, I still have a divine calling that I was born with, which is to love, to give and to receive love.
- You realize that in the presence of love, miracles occur naturally.
- Anytime we withhold love, we are deflecting a miracle.
- Our fear mind is really equated with our ego mind, and when we choose our thoughts - and enlightenment is a choice - if we're thinking a loving thought, we can activate this Law of Divine Compensation.

CONSCIOUSSHIFT™ ACTIONS

How can we activate the Law - and how do we deactivate it?

- In the morning, the most powerful thing we can do is to meditate - because just as a coach of a great athlete, we'll have the athlete envision the move before they actually make the move.
- When we meditate, we allow our minds to settle into natural alignment with the natural harmonies of the universe. Remember, it's within the alignment of the natural harmony of the universe that all is programmed for perfection.
When you wake up in the morning and you go directly to the newspaper or the computer and view the news, as the world defines that view, then you are surrendering your mind to the forces of fear. Now, I'm not saying you shouldn't read the newspaper - I think we should know what's going on in the world - but we should see it from a place where we have already prepared our minds in such a way that we can experience ourselves not as at the effect of all the terrible news in the world - but as transformers of all the terrible news in the world.
- From that point, you go through your day - you save your business, you save your job.
"May I be a vessel of love through this work, may the world be a better place because I have this job, may I show up impeccably, may I not live in the past but in the present, may I look at every human encounter in every situation as an opportunity to bless and to extend love.
- Let me, before I even go to work today, send love and wish for peace to my employer, to my employers, to my clients, to my perspective clients." - and you actually go through the mental discipline of sending love to everyone involved with you in a work situation.
- You begin to realize that, in any place where we are withholding love, we're blocking the miracle.
- It's amazing how much abundance flows through us when we allow the abundance in our hearts to flow out.

Miracles are natural - when they do not occur something has gone wrong.

7-9

- If you don't believe that it is an abundant, miracle-filled universe, you won't even be able to see the opportunities sometimes that are right before you.
- In this present moment, the universe is an infinite opportunity-creating machine.
You might have a new opportunity right in front of you - in the guise of a person who might be interested in hiring you, or connect you to your next opportunity - but because you bring the energy of the past, rather than really being open to new beginnings in the present, you completely miss out on the opportunity.

On a mortal plane, we all do different things - but on the spiritual plane, we're all here for the same purpose.

9-12

- That purpose to be conduit for the love that will heal the world.

One person gives their upliftment and their love and their service through sciences, some through the arts, some through the legal system, some through education.

- Work takes a different form - but at the deepest level, we all have the same calling.

At the highest level, your work is not just about what you do.

It's about the consciousness that you bring to it.

- Anyone can be of service. If you're in contact with people, if you're doing something related to people, you have an opportunity to put good in the world.

The Law of Fair Exchange & Love as the Bottom Line

12-23

- What we want is for money - just like goodwill, just like love, just like justice - to circulate freely and fully.

When you are creating something of value and you put it out into the world and somebody gives you money in exchange, they added value to your life in the form of money that you use to pay your bills. You put something of value in their hands.

- That's the Law of Fair Exchange. That's what capitalism should be.
- Money actually should not be the bottom line. Love should be the bottom line. Humanitarian value should be the bottom line. Ethics should be the bottom line. Morality should be the bottom line.
- Then within that of course, the Law of Fair Exchange works perfectly for everyone.

CONSCIOUSSHIFT™ ACTIONS

- The first step is to place your need for work in God's hands.

This is important - whether you're looking for a job, or whether we're just thinking about any kind of work that we want, or if we want to improve our businesses.

- Take the highest responsibility for your life.

You pay a very high price for not taking 100% responsibility for your life.

The price you pay is that you will then not be able to change your circumstances.

Sometimes, there's a lot of self-forgiveness necessary. Some of that includes atonement, admitting where we've made mistakes, admitting where we were not wise, admitting where we were not moderate, admitting where we were not responsible.

The only thing that's ultimately a failure is something that we didn't learn from.

There is no more important change of thinking than forgiveness.

Even if you have made mistakes - there is Divine Compensation. Move back into love.

- Life's Top Line* means your values are aligned with what you're contributing to the world - and it encompasses your highest and best life. "It's to live in the flow of a meaningful life."
